Students from Year 8 Charity, at St. Michael School in Santa Venera, Malta, participated in this project together with students from St. Monica School in Gzira, Malta, and the Istituto Comprensivo Statale Via Nenni in Torremaggiore, Italy.

“Every territory has its own landscape and its proper literary, historical, artistic, ethnographic and artisan tradition, which is worth discovering and telling about. The project, thus brings about the opportunity for individuals to rediscover the territory surrounding them, while enabling various comparisons with other territories, near or far.”

Siamo quello che mangiamo

Students in the Year 8 Faith / Year 8 Hope Italian group at St. Michael School in Santa Venera, Malta, worked on this project with peers from St. Augustine College in Pietà, Malta, ICS Via Nenni Torremaggiore in Italy, and students from two Greek schools, namely, 1st Junior High School of Keratsini and 3rd High School of Orestiada.

“The main objective of the project is that of encouraging discussion and dialogue through what can be called, the "language of food". Educating an individual in creating a positive approach towards food items that are consumed, eventually contributes to bringing along a favourable closeness of that same individual, with his/her surrounding territory and environment, as well as with that found elsewhere.”

Compagni di viaggio e cittadini del mondo

Italian students in Year 9 at St. Michael School in Santa Venera, Malta, participated in this project along with students from ICS Via Nenni Torremaggiore, Italy and Greek students from 4th High School of Stavroupolis and 9th High School of Patras.

“The project also focuses on integrating the idea of "travel", not only in the literal sense of the word, meaning, one’s actual movement in space and time, but also in its symbolic sense, portraying a desire for discovery and research.”

Studenti europei a confronto

Form 4 students at St. Michael School in Santa Venera, Malta, collaborated in this project, with Italian students from the Istituto Omnicomprensivo di Alvito and Istituto Comprensivo Statale 3 di Sora.

“The project also has as its objective, the promoting of communication in Italian, as well as in English, at times, thus encouraging intercultural dialogue, and aiming, most especially, at building and strengthening Teamwork and the students' ability to work together towards a common goal, thus helping them to become independent learners at the centre of their learning experience.”

Corriere dei giovani

Year 11 students of Italian at St. Michael School in Santa Venera, Malta, participated in this project along with students from St. Augustine College in Pieta, Malta, as well as with students from ICS "Don Lorenzo Milani" di Monte Porzio Catone, Roma and Secondary School students from Władysław Jagiełło in Płock, Poland.

“On taking up the project named “Corriere dei Giovani”, the students are invited to create an eBook with articles based on themes related to values worth acquiring. All the articles, grouped together following a particular theme, are to reflect a precise topic, set every month. Once the articles are read, the students are enabled to work together, creating "blogs" on Twinspace, through which they are eventually required to share all the knowledge acquired from such articles that they have written themselves.”
